Short Bio

Hello! My name is Cedric Kagimbanyi... As I welcome you to my portfolio, I am acknowledged today as a creative person, a graphic designer, a photographer, etc... and sometimes a person who always thinks out of the box. But how did I inherit all those names?

My journey started in Africa, a baby full of ambitions, silent and with a very observing eye... Due to historical factors that I cannot ignore, I was born in Burundi as a refugee yet I was Rwandan. After the genocide in Rwanda (1994), my family moved back to our country... The country of a thousand hills.

I started school in Rwanda, I was a very brilliant student but with exercise books full of drawings instead of the teachers' notes. My parents did not consider that as a distraction; especially my father that unfortunately passed away when I was only 12 years old; They encouraged me to never give up on my talent.

After completion of secondary school studies majoring in science, I was already good at drawing and using computers. I decided to go for multimedia trainings that included graphic design courses; This helped me to start a career from 2010 till now, I had the chance to work and play a key role in the leading design companies in Rwanda.

In addition to trainings and work experience, I had the opportunity to go for university. I am now working on my last project at University of Rwanda, In the Faculty of Architecture and Environmental Design, Department of Creative Design.
